Basic information:

We received a total of 180 responses to the survey both online and in paper form.

The total number of people involved was 382 adults and 120 children. The average number people per household was 2 adults and 0 children. However some households had many more adults and some up to 6 children. This was only for a couple.

There is an interactive map showing the postcodes of everyone who got involved with the survey.

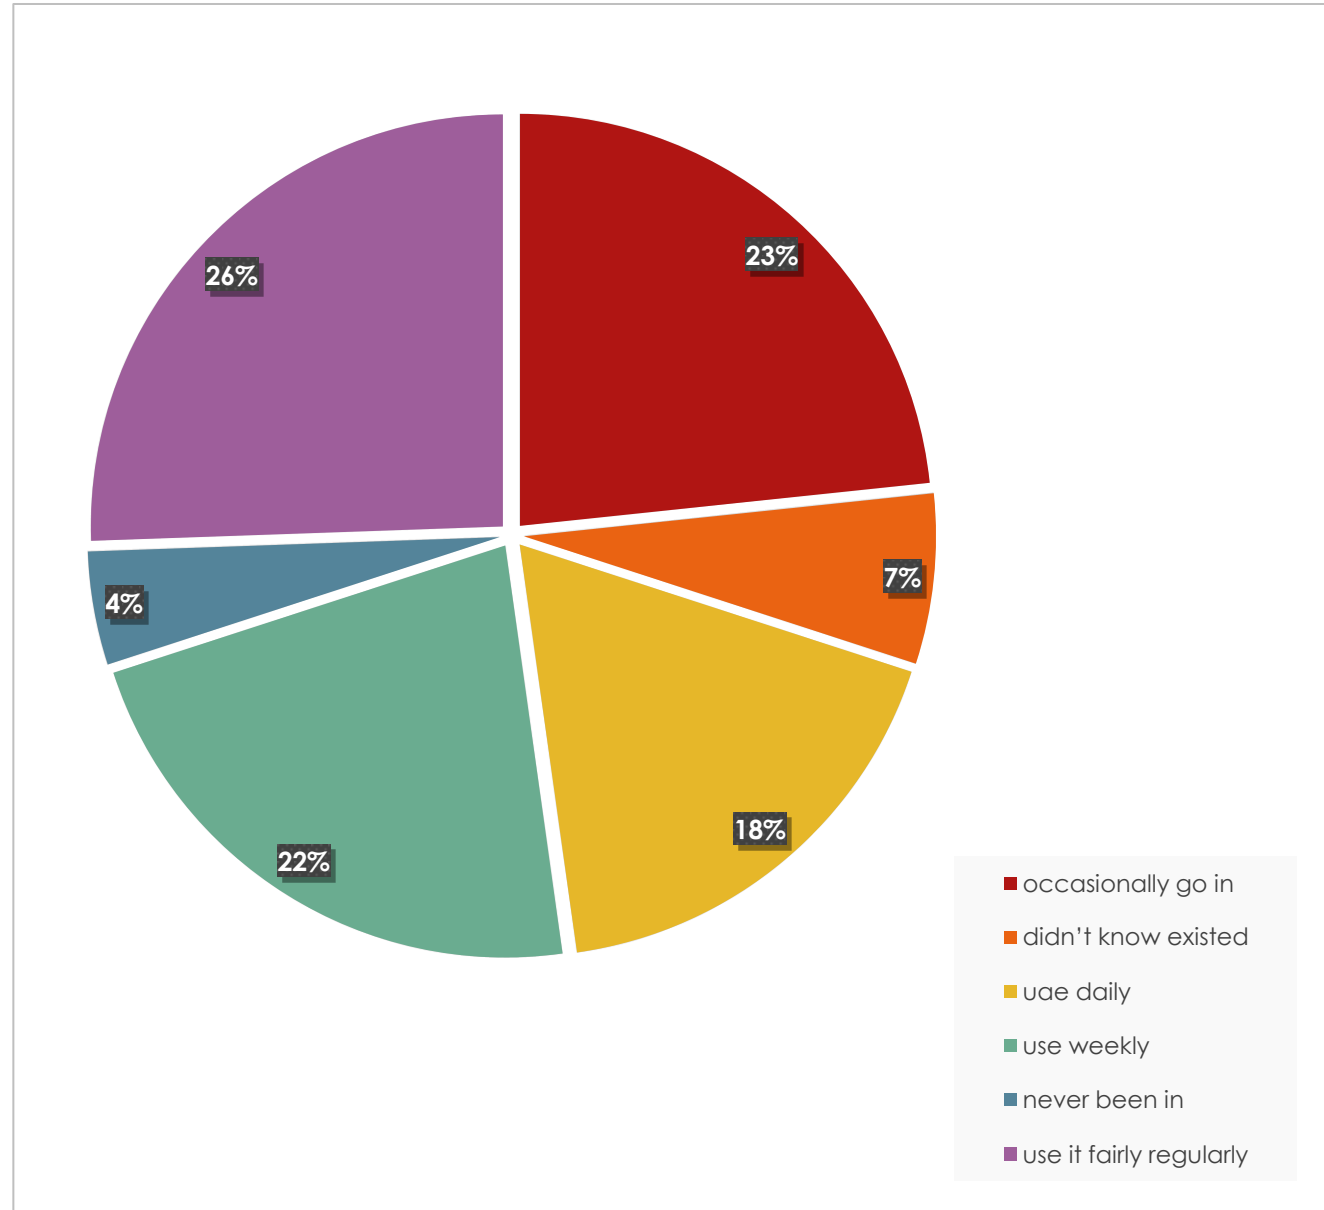

The postcodes provided show that most of the people who replied live close to Holly Hayes woods, either in Whitwick or closer to Ager Nook.

This graph shows the most popular activity in the woods by far is simply going for a walk. Other popular activities include daily/ regular exercise, enjoying nature, dog walking, and relaxing/enjoying the atmosphere.

Other unique activities people mentioned include:

- Nature photography
- Meditation
- Bike riding

Most popular activities:

Opinions on the new activities:

Overall, most of the suggested activities were received with “high importance”, however some were stated as “of little importance” by the majority of people.

As shown by the chart, the most important ones were:

- Protecting wildlife/habitat
- Maintaining access to paths/entrances
- Litter management
- Informal walking/exercise
- Taking anti-social behaviour

Willingness to get involved:

Out of the 180 respondents to the survey, 61 said they were willing to get involved with the activities presented either quite often or very often. They all offered a wide range of skills and talents from IT and administration to years of teaching experience to engineering too.

I have made a list of the people who are willing to get involved and sent it to Jason.

Problems with the woods:

Out of the 180 responses we got only 5 complaints were made about the woods. 4 of them were the poor conditions of the entrances and pathways as it is more difficult for the elderly to use the woods. The other complaint was about motorbikes in the woods racing down the footpaths endangering children.

They were the only negative thing anyone had to say, everything else about the woods was positive.

Thank you for listening.
